Welcome to the Natural Power of Herbal Wellness

In a world increasingly turning to natural solutions, herbal products offer a time-tested path to health and balance. Rooted in ancient traditions and backed by modern science, herbal remedies harness the healing power of nature to support the body, mind, and spirit.

As Torque Wellness, the Ayurvedic arm of Torque Pharmaceuticals, draws on a storied legacy spanning four decades—rooted in a foundational ethos of quality, accessibility, and ethical innovation. Torque Wellness seamlessly extends Torque's heritage of trusted formulations (like Torex Herbal Cough Syrup, Relief on Oil etc.) into the sphere of Ayurveda, blending time-honored traditional knowledge with scientific rigor.

Underpinned by state-of-the-art R&D and Manufacturing facilities in Himachal Pradesh and Punjab, the division harnesses advanced research methodologies to develop safe, standardized, and effective herbal products.

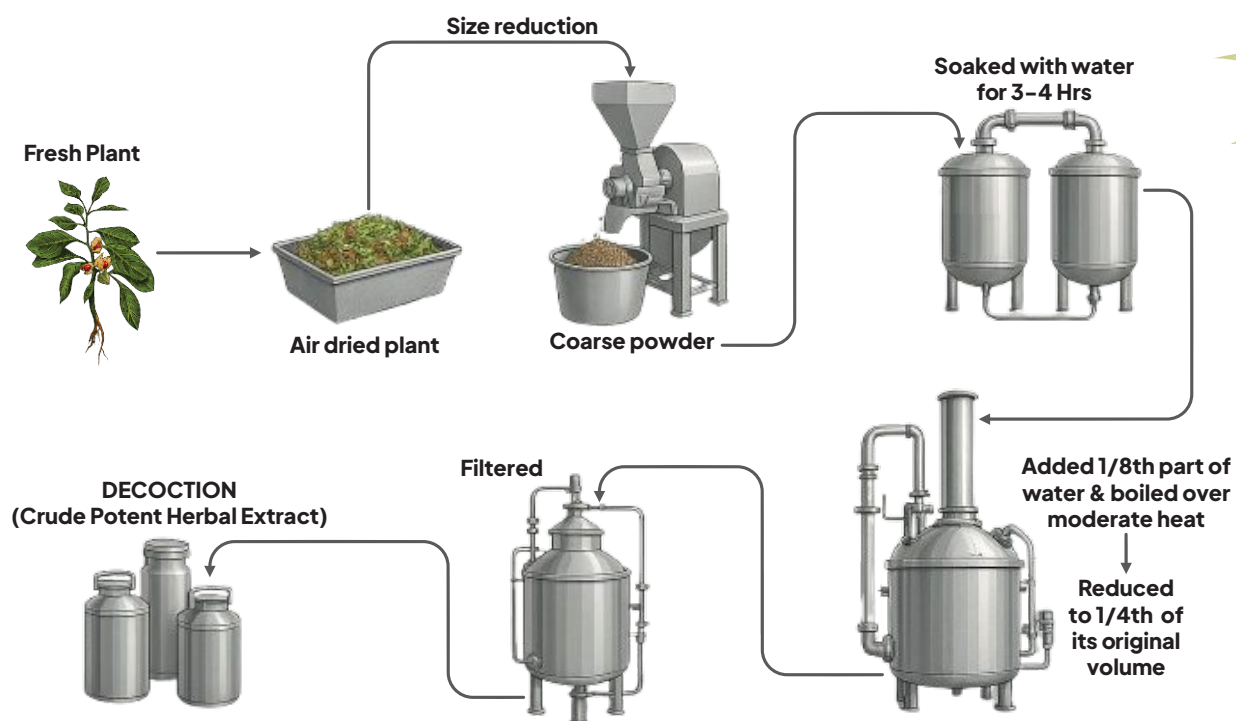

We proudly grow many of our herbs on our own land, ensuring each plant is nurtured with care from seed to harvest. Free from harmful chemicals and cultivated using sustainable, eco-friendly practices that reflects a deep respect for both nature and your well-being.

Every leaf, root, flower, barks, and seed we use is carefully selected at peak potency to preserve its natural benefits. By cultivating our own herbs from seed to harvest, we ensure full traceability—preserving purity, potency, and integrity—before carefully crafting each herb into your wellness ritual.

To further honor tradition and maximize therapeutic value, we use the time-honored method of Decoction—gently simmering roots, barks, and seeds to release heat-stable, water-soluble compounds (such as alkaloids, polysaccharides, and phenolics) for deep, full-spectrum extraction. This process, used in Ayurvedic “Kwath” (Decoction) preparations, allows us to draw out constituents that cannot be captured by simple infusion, creating a more concentrated and effective herbal extract.

Decoction Process

This process yields a balanced, powerful formula that honors tradition and supports modern wellness.

Rediscover the wisdom of nature and take a step towards a healthier, more holistic lifestyle with our herbal products where every ingredient tells a story of wellness.
